Latest Property News    Is it Worth Buying a Holiday Home Overseas?    Oct 2, 2009    OK, so you've had a fab holiday, drinking Ouzo or G&T's and spent every day on the beach! You couldn't help but notice a few 'for sale' signs for some lovely properties, perhaps ramshackle farm cottages in need of TLC or beautiful beach front penthouse apartments and villas. And, in case you don't step outside of the hotel to see properties for sale, all the tourist brochures seem to be full of information about "how to buy a holiday home in three easy steps" and make lots of money from renting it out to other holiday makers or selling it at a huge profit.
Stop, Look and Listen before you go for 'no money' down deals!    Sep 11, 2009    Well they are at it again! Back in mid 2000 there were lots of property sourcing companies offering what appeared to be, and what turned out to be, unbelievable deals on property for investment purposes. And, as the market starts to show signs of picking up (which it isn't really, supply has reduced to match low demand), then out come the property locaters and their 'magic deals'!
